MEI Adds Two New Continuing Education Courses for Nurses

Madison, Wisconsin—The nonprofit Medical Education Institute (MEI) has added two new continuing education courses for nurses to its continuing education website. Each hour-long course is available for $10 for 1 credit.

Healthcare Professionalism, Ethics, and Empathy demonstrates how important it is to maintain appropriate professional behavior when working with patients. The course covers healthcare technical and ethical standards, patient/provider relationships and boundaries, the dialysis patient’s point-of-view to develop interpersonal communication skills, and much more.

Include Dialysis Patients in your Facility Culture of Safety focuses on effective systems and teamwork—that includes patients—to accomplish the mutual goal of safe, high-quality patient care. When something goes wrong, the focus is on what, rather than who, is the problem, with the intent to bring process failures and system issues to light and solve them in a non-biased, non-threatening way.

MEI is approved by the California Board of Registered Nursing, Provider Number CEP-15591.

About MEI: Founded in 1993, MEI is a national 501(c)(3) public charity dedicated to helping people with chronic disease learn to manage and improve their health. MEI fulfills its mission by conducting research, developing evidence-based education for consumers and health professionals, and advocating for patient-centered policies. MEI is funded through licensing of the KDQOL-Complete service, sales of the 6th edition Core Curriculum for the Dialysis Technician book and slides, sponsorships for our Life Options, Kidney School, and Home Dialysis Central websites, fee-for-service contracts, and donations.
